Railway Stations.

The old building on Belleville Avenue used by the New York and Greenwood Lake Railroad Company as a station is about to be torn down by the owners. This will necessitate the removal of the station elsewhere. A temporary stopping place may be fixed at Spruce Street, but it is the ultimate intention of the Company to erect a passenger depot at Walnut Street, where there is abundance of room for both buildings and siding. This intention has awakened anew the project of extending Birch Street across the canal to Walnut Street, to afford access to the new station from Belleville Avenue, Spruce Street, Monroe Place, etc.

Many residences of the best class have recently been established on Belleville Avenue east of the canal, and the entire ridge is destined to become the choicest part of the town. It should therefore have a depot building, not only of ample size to allow for future growth, but it should be a handsome structure.

Its permanent location, there will necessitate other changes and improvements in the stations along the line in Bloomfield. The Glen Ridge station at Chestnut Hill is a very neat one, only lacking in the proper grading and beautifying of the grounds surrounding it, and the providing of sidewalks and macadam roads approaching it, which the borough will not doubt soon provide within its lines. Bloomfield should macadamize Benson Street to Essex Avenue, and also should extend State Street to afford access to the ridge station on the south side.

On the extreme east across the Canal at the Orchard Street will probably be moved further east to Willet Street, and the Soho, or "Umbrella Station" as some call it, discontinued.

The extension of Beach Street should be urged upon the attention of the town authorities, and no time lost in doing it.

The street crossings. Those at Broad Street, New Street and Belleville Avenue are fortunately protected, while those at Spruce and Orchard Streets should and doubtless will be made safe by putting the roadway under the tracks in the same manner, as it can be done without materially altering the railway grade, and when done will for all time save the expense of a gateman. Both the town and Company would profit by this solution of the two most dangerous and inconvenient railway crossings in Bloomfield.

Piling Up Taxes.

The Bloomfield Township tax bills are being prepared for distribution. Assuming that Glen Ridge is still a part of Bloomfield, the township tax rate is made to be 2.28 in the upper district, 2.80 and 3.20 in the lower districts. The bills to be sent to Glen Ridge taxpayers will have the rate 1.66 upon them, which is based upon leaving off the county tax. The expense of printing and distributing such tax bills in the borough is a few more dollars added upon Bloomfield as part of the "legal expenses" incurred in fighting Glen Ridge. Such tax bills are not expected to be paid, but intended to confuse and intimidate some Glen Ridge taxpayers, or afford a pretext for delaying paying the borough taxes. By juggling figures this way and pretending to tax Glen Ridge, the Bloomfield rate for 1895 is kept down, but what must it be for 1896? At the present time being made "After us the deluge" is apparently the motto of those in power at the "City Hall."

Republican Political Notes.

The Republican County Committee will hold an important meeting to-night. The Executive Committee will meet this afternoon, at which time the apportionment among the various election districts of the 153 delegates to the State Convention allotted to this County will probably be made. This will be a long and arduous task. A day will be fixed by the County Committee for the holding of primaries for the election of these delegates, which will probably be Monday, Sept. 10th. Due notice will be given in our next issue.

Several other matters of interest will be laid before the County Committee. One will be the Glen Ridge primary election for County Commissioner which was held last Saturday.

Some notion of how the County feels toward the various candidates for Governor will be gained.

The County Convention will not be held before October. The date for the primaries will not be fixed until the next meeting of the County Committee.

A Voice From the Chain-Gang.

In Rhea County, East Tennessee, is a colony of Seventh-day Adventists. A few weeks ago eight of them were put on trial for desecrating Sunday, convicted and fined. Although abundantly able to pay their fines they refused to do so and were sent to jail on work-house mittimus to work out their sentences on the county roads. They have been put to work with the county convicts in the chain-gang, and the result has been, that hundreds of newspapers have spoken in condemnation, both of the laws of Tennessee permitting it to be done, and the ten-times-worse enforcement of the same at the instigation of modern bigots and hypocrites.

Among the very few exceptions to the stand taken by the press of the country against this case of religious persecution is the Commercial Appeal, published in Memphis, Tenn. It ridicules and slanders the persecuted men and says:

"The laws against the violation of our day of rest are unrepugnant, and no matter whether just or unjust, wise or unwise, they should be enforced."

The utter heartlessness and hypocrisy of this utterance will be better understood when it is known that the Commercial Appeal publishes a Sunday edition, involving work on that day just as much in violation of the Sunday statute as that for which the Adventists have been convicted.

The hypocrisy of it is further shown in a letter written by Byrd Terry, to the editor of the American Sentinel, in which he says:

"I am now working in the chain-gang at Spring City, Tenn., on the public roads with seven others of my brethren, who have offended the peace and dignity of the State and the conscience of our neighbors by peacefully and quietly going about our work on Sunday as on other days of the week. My offense was unloading a wheelbarrow from my wagon and setting it over the fence of the one from whom I had borrowed it, he being also an Adventist."

"The man who witnessed the awful act lives on the opposite side of the road, and is a deacon of the Baptist Church. The next day I was indicted by the grand jury, as the court was then in session. I am now paying the penalty at hard work in the chain-gang for sixty days, because I disturbed the conscience of this deacon of the Baptist Church by unloading that wheelbarrow on Sunday."

"I have no right to judge the man, but I am led to inquire why I am arrested for doing what I did, while the son of this same deacon goes fishing on Sunday? Also, he is seen gathering branches on Sunday for wages, and still his conscience is not disturbed; and that, too, since I was arrested, and this Baptist father is not disturbed at least I hear of no arrests being made. It is not possible that the deacon could fall from grace so soon, even if he believed in the doctrine. I was a member of and preacher in the Baptist Church before I became a Seventh-day Adventist, and knowing their principles then, and what they have suffered in the past for conscience's sake, I least expected a Baptist brother to appear as my persecutor. This action impresses on my mind the fact that my Baptist brethren have backslidden on the principle of religious liberty which were once so dear to them."

Glen Ridge Republican Primary.

In response to a request issued to the Republican voters of the Borough of Glen Ridge, a primary meeting was held in Glen Ridge Hall last Saturday night. The object was to elect one member of the Essex County Committee to represent Glen Ridge Borough, and an Executive Committee for the election district of Glen Ridge. Besides the printing and posting notices of the meeting, blank ballots were provided for the use of the voters, but no further work was done toward securing the attendance of Republicans.

At 8 o'clock, which hour had been fixed for the meeting, the hall was about half filled with citizens, when it became evident that an effort had been made to forestall its action and capture the primary in the interest of a faction known as the "anti-boroughites." The leader of this movement was John Sherman, who was distributing tickets that had been printed ready for voting. The pre-arranged candidates were Arthur J. Lockwood for County Committee, and Frank V. Oakes, H. G. Darwin, H. Van Auker and H. K. Benson for the Executive Committee.

Shortly after eight o'clock John Sherman called the meeting to order, no one who signed the call being at the time in the room. He called for nominations for Chairman and Arthur J. Lockwood was declared the choice of the meeting. While this was being done, Frank S. Benson came in and when it was proposed to elect a Secretary he objected and stated that the running of the primary would have to be in accordance with the rules of the County Committee for conducting such meetings. By these rules the Republican Clerk of the Election Board would be the Secretary, and the Republican Inspector judge of the election. Mr. Benson stated that these officers were present and must officiate. This was at length agreed to by those who had come to organize the meeting in their own way. George S. Bedford was therefore Clerk and read the call of the primary. Some one then nominated the printed ticket, and opposed to it, Hampton L. Johnston was named for County Committee. H. K. Benson had already declined to stand as a member of the Executive Committee on the "anti" ticket and when nominations were made against the "anti" he again declined. John Sherman was nominated by the anti-

in place of H. K. Benson. F. S. Benson, E. E. Wright, T. W. Langstroth, S. M. Hullin and J. G. Zabriske were also nominated for Executive Committee.

When it was proposed to vote on the names before the meeting, Mr. Benson said that the rules for conducting primaries Mr. Lockwood could not be Chairman and at the same time a candidate. This was another rule that the anti-boroughites refused to submit to, but Mr. Lockwood said that if his sitting as Chairman would invalidate his election on the County Committee he would resign as Chairman. This he did and Joseph M. Williams took his place. He ordered the election to proceed, and it resulted in the choice of A. J. Lockwood for County Committee, receiving 25 votes, to 24 for H. L. Johnston. The Executive Committee consisted of H. C. Van Auker, H. G. Darwin, Frank V. Oakes, T. Winsor Langstroth and E. E. Wright.

The Primary was called with the best of intentions, but without mature consideration. It proved to be a mistake to call a Republican meeting for Saturday night and in the middle of August. The result was the force of a Glen Ridge Primary controlled by Bloomfield politicians.

The New Jersey State Fair.

This popular and prosperous Society will hold its thirty-seventh annual exhibition at Waverly Park, on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, between Newark and Elizabeth, opening Monday, September 2d, (Labor Day), and the fair will continue the five succeeding days. The officers of the Society have spared neither labor nor expense to make the coming exhibition the most interesting and attractive of any previous fair held by the Society. Everything that could be done to invite exhibition and make their quarters more comfortable has already been attended to, so that at this time both the grounds and buildings present an attractive and home-like appearance. The houses, cattle, sheep, swine and wine sheds are in thorough repair, while the principal exhibition buildings have been renovated and are made both convenient and comfortable for exhibits. The number, variety and class of exhibits from present exhibitors is said to surpass all previous years. The horse department will have several new classes and the judging will be made a popular feature. The various classes will be shown on the track each morning from 10 to 12 A. M. The classes for harness, coach and road horses will be hotly contested, and the special prize competition for runabouts is in conceded will eclipse all others in popular interest. The entries in the cattle department are away ahead of previous years, and from present indications in all of the other departments the Society will be crowded for room. This is to be accounted for from the fact that the officers of this Society make it a point to show special attention to the exhibitors and they appreciate the courtesy. In addition to this the State Fair offers superior advantages from its favored location as a market fair. Exhibitors finding a good market for their stock are quick to appreciate the fact, and in saying that they can do better, take more orders and make more money than at any other fair.

Measures of reaching the grounds will induce thousands to go this year, giving exhibitors a much larger audience than they have had heretofore. The officers of the State Society always make it their business to please visitors, so that when leaving the grounds they are satisfied that they have had full value for their time and expense. The Society have never allowed the horse or the track to overshadow the other departments, but each one is kept abreast with all of the others. It matters not what is the visitor's specialty, he will find an abundance of material to occupy and absorb his time while on the grounds. There will be a large show of horses, neat cattle, sheep, swine and poultry, improved farm machinery of every description, carriages, wagons, etc. Also fruits, grain and vegetables, with an extensive assortment of domestic and home-made productions, besides a creditable display of fine arts by amateur artists, with a miscellaneous collection of novelties, which add largely to the attractive features of the exhibition.

New Patents.

A movement is on foot in Illinois to build a monument to Elijah Parish Lovejoy, who was shot in Alton in 1837 while defending his right as an American citizen to utter his sentiments in regard to the wrong of slavery. The State Legislature appropriated $25,000 to this object, conditioned on the raising of $12,500 additional by January 1, 1896. It is now proposed to raise the amount needed by contributions from the journalists of the land who are much indebted to him for his heroic sacrifice, which went far toward establishing the principle of free speech and a free press. Every American should consider it a privilege to give to this object, and can do so by remitting a sum, large or small, to John E. Haynes, Clerk of Alton Savings Bank, Alton, Ill.

Heat Value of Coal.
The important fact has been stated over again been stated by those who have investigated the subject with scientific accuracy that only about 80 per cent of the total heat value of coal is contained in an engine by heating it up into power. In tracing up the loss, it is stated that there are required 1,300 degrees of heat, or 1,300 degrees of temperature, to change one pound of water into steam, while during the absorption of this heat the heat the temperature of the water remains at 212 degrees. The enormous amount of steam is rendered and does not sensibly affect the temperature. Scientific authorities explain the cause of this loss in the steam as due to the fact that the 990 degrees absorbed by water in being transferred to steam—212 degrees are apparently lost—1,080 degrees are apparently lost, and make up the 1,300 degrees mentioned—go into the engine heated by the thermometer, leave the same manner and go to waste in the York
